T. P. Ballard, president of the exchange, presided, and there were present not only the directors of the exchange, but many members of the Mississippi River Committee, and of the Business Men's Lengue.

Mr. Crowel presented to the meeting a series of interrogations bearing on many phases of the Mississippi River problem He asked the committees to consider and answer the questions when the necesary date could be provided.

These questions covered six typewritten pages, asking for maps showing the area of the St. Louis markets, in grain, live stock, lumber and jobbing.

He wanted to know the number of miles f railroad contributing to this area, the progress of improvements in the river channel since 1872, the growth or decilne of river towns, what amount of capital is invested in river transportation, how railway rates are influenced by river competition, and the probable commercial offect of deepening the channel to nine feet from here to Cairo. COMMITTEE APPOINTED.

very great necessity of the proposed im-provement.

All of the speakers emphasized the im-portance of providing a defined channel which could be depended upon during all the months that river traffic is not im-peded by ice. The speakers deciared their belief that with such a channel new lines of steamers would be provided, new cap-ltal intrested and a new impetus given to river traffic.

In order that Mr. Crowell's questions to river traffic.

In order that Mr. Crowell's questions could be answered in detail, Mr. Ballard appointed a committee, consisting of A. C. Church, chairman, H. C. Haarstick, W. K. Kavanaush, John A. Ockerson, W. F. Saunders. John E. Massengale and George H. Morgan.

Mr. Crowell will proceed to Cairo today to continue his examination of the proposed improvements.

Well Under Way.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Decatur, Ill., Oct. 22.-Final surveys were completed this week for the route to be taken by the Decatur, Springfield and St. Louis Interurban road—the McKinley syndicate line-between this city and Springfield. Several miles of the lines already have been constructed eastward from Springfield and a bridge crossing the Sangamon River at Riverton, between Decatur and Springfield, is almost ready for the iron work.

The line westward from Decatur will run parallel with the Wabash Railway most of the distance to Springfield, Some heavy grading on this route makes it necessary to purchase a right-of-way iso feet in width for narts of the distance. Seventy-pound steel is being laid. South of Springfield toward St. Louis about ten miles of steel has been laid, and the greater part of the grading completed south of Carlinville. for the iron work.
